“ The Day you came home from the hospital so sweet, so beautiful, so calm is one of my perfect days, laying on your mommy's chest quirking a side grin, you were content, as you grew older & begin to gain control of your limbs, you loved to dance, run & play, take an evening walk even in the snow without the stroller! Eyes alight in wonder at the snow, or budding trees or flowers & fall leaves. We lost your mother & then you found the parents of every child's dream, they fought for you & kept you safe, giving you all they could, Mommy always baking chocolate chip cookies for you, buying kisses for you both to share, Eating cheese pizza together, then daddy let you help him bbq hamburgers & you & he had a meaty supper, daddy being made up with hair bows & lipstick, fingernail polish & you telling me about your high forehead was like his! So sweet, Your momma making all your sundays special with beautiful dresses & hairbows, oh baby girl you are my world, our private tea parties where only people who wanted to sit & chat could come, drinking coffee as I taught you to call acquired taste at the age of 2, To see you ride the horses come summer in the country with me, calling the trainer out on the game of phishing for algae, you said just a way to get the water bins cleaned out. How you didn't mind cleaning the horses teeth or their shoes.....something happened that turned you around now my sweetie your gone but not forgotten, every time I make your favorite food I will set you a place, I will not dwell on the bad but all the beautiful times, getting your granny on a roller coaster, go cart, in the lake, pool & just brushing each other hair & how you liked for me to sing to you same song about 4 or 5 times till you fell asleep. You are my joy & you will always be on my mind, alive in my memories till we meet again. Sweet Spirit know my heart is where your memories grow! love granny

“ First, I want to give my deepest condolences to my cousin, Bruce Basham, Sara Basham and Cathy Basham Voight and the rest of Branda's family.

I met Branda about 13 years ago on a trip with my father to West Va. She was 9 years old. She was so cute with her little accent and big personality. She was a very bright little girl. We all went out to some restaurant, like a 'Friday's' and in comes Branda and her little girlfriend, both wearing 2-gallon cowboy hats and cowboy boots. They were so cute and charming and you could tell they were having a blast. I was privileged to meet this this amazing person and tears run down my eyes as I write this. I know the angels have already lifted her high into paradise where there is no pain, sadness or strife: just peace and love and joy. And, my father will be there to greet her. Love, Donna, your second cousin in Cleveland, Ohio.

“ My dear Branda!! I have to share a memory - TT has been thinking about you so much.. I just want you to know that I will sometimes sit and cry and then I can hear you saying "I'm sweating bullets" and I just have to laugh!! Our last trip to Florida was one I will never forget, our stops we made papaw stop and make so we could get out and smoke and then you getting hot and we were all freezing, I know you would be laughing at this right now..
