“ Linda, My love and sympathy to you and your family at this most difficult time. Throughout the past several weeks, it has been evident you have been so supportive of your Charlie, and stayed by his side through days that seemed endless. I know today has been a difficult one, and I pray you can feel God's loving arms around you. May God grant each of you peace and comfort as you go forward.

“ Linda, I am so sorry for your loss. There are no words that I can say that will comfort you at this time. You have so many good memories that you and Charlie shared. Think of these memories as you go through this time of grief. God will be with you and comfort you. You have so many friends and family who love you and care about you. Draw on their strength and love as well as Gods. I love you and will do anything I can for you.
