“ Hello Girls, I'm so very sorry for your loss and all the trials you are going through. I know how your heart aches one moment and then you think of all she went through before she passed and then you rejoice that she has gone on to that wonderful place of peace and rest. We grieve for ourselves now because we have to rejoice for Aunt Dell and the fact that she has reached her final resting place. I still miss my Momma almost every day of my life and she has been gone for seven years and it seems like just yesterday, but I know she is at rest and out of pain.

We will be praying for each of you that you can rest in our Lord Jesus to help you through your grief and pain in your hearts. We love each of you even if we wouldn't know some of you if we met in the street, we are still blood kin. Sorry I haven't kept up with each of you but we seem to let life get into the way of important things and lose touch with each other. There is no excuse except that we let our priorities get out of order. Forgive me for my short-comings and I will try to do better.

Love all of you and may God richly bless each of you and your families. Some day we will have another "home-coming" in heaven even if we don't meet again here.

Our love is coming your way,
Cousin Linda Hedrick Wickline
