“ Daddy I will always remember you and don't know how to pick up pieces. I will miss hearing your voice and our conversations on my way home from work. You scolded me about my seat belt and making sure that I was using bluetooth in the car so I wasn't distracted. One day I promise when I see you again I am going to collect on my sweepstakes winnings that you said I won. My phone rings and it's danielle but it still says dad as the caller and for a brief moment I feel like you are there and this is just a horrible nightmare. Please watch over me and the family and don't ever truly leave me....

I love you to the moon and back
