“ I am so sorry for your loss. When we lose someone we love God sees our tears of pain. That is why at Revelation 21:3, 4 he promises to forever remove ALL the things that makes us cry, including death. This scripture has comforted me in my times of loss. I hope it comforts you as well.

“ May 23 (Friday - 6:00 am) I'm a little embarrassed to write twice, but I so enjoyed your wonderful photo/musical tribute re life of Lenora. Hope to share that with my Mom (Hattie Holder) at her local library, or on my Smart Phone. Am making a Fall trip to WV, for a HS Veteran tribute, which includes honoring my military husband (D). Join us, if possible. One of Lenora's family members recently called my Mom - appreciated. Realize I should have been more clear on yesterday's post re our overnight visit with Lenora and you, Linda... Readers may not have understood that circumstances then were connected to weeks of severe snow/blizzard conditions. Lenora's photo with a guitar is special. My Mom loved playing a guitar, at home. The fun they could have had playing guitars together, as I had given Mom a new one, prior to seeing you... Her relatives in Asheville, NC, area play Blue Grass. Bless you, Linda and all, for your patience. Hoping to hear from you... Linda Alderman

“ Dear Family Members of Lenora Wyatt: About four years ago, I drove 7 hours, trying to visit my Mom, Hattie Holder, for Christmas, but was stranded two nights in Wytheville hotel, on the way. My children called the State Police, looking for me. After not being able to drive at all during Christmas, roads cleared some in afternoons. For days, Mom and I had little or no TV, water, phone or heat sources, but she kept wondering if I could help her find a best friend, whom she had NOT seen once in 70 years, named Lenora... Sure needed a miracle, isolated during Holidays. We survived a two-hour drive and with help of my On-Star phone in car, found Lenora, at home... all smiles... a wonderful gift. Lenora, and her daughter Linda, welcomed us so beautifully. My Mom was thrilled. We felt very comfortable, and were invited to stay overnight. It was rewarding hearing their stories, having many values in common. Mom treasured teen-age memories, all her life, mostly because of the kindness of Lenora and her own Mom's hospitality, many, many years ago... Thank you, thank you, Linda, Lenora, and extended Family... Be blessed always for being such a blessing in life... Linda Alderman
